

V9 Personal conference Unit

Description:

Accutone - V9 Personal conference Unit Description

This Personal Conference Unit has a simple plug-and-play interface. There's a useful built-in recording and playback function that allows you to record conversations and even store them on a separate memory card; ideal if you want to transfer the recorded audio between devices. Cleverly, the memory card slot will act as a USB card reader. The custom-built speaker unit is designed for the best quality voice and video calls adding to the truly professional value of this conference unit. The product is also designed to be fully portable with the USB cable and plug able to tuck neatly inside the unit, an ideal solution for business trips or cluttered desks!

The functional benefits of the V9 Personal Conference Unit are two-fold. This device has excellent audio output, perfect for replaying recorded meetings and discussions which require transcribing. In addition to this the memory card is also able to store music and the excellent audio quality enables this device to double up as a personal music player. This product is therefore ideal for both personal and professional use.

Features:

- Built-in recording and playback function
- USB card reader
- Superior audio output
