

Y Training Cord with Volume and Mute Control

Description:

This pioneering training cord allows a supervisor and an employee to be plugged into the same telephone at the same time. The supervisor can monitor the telephone conversation and give input on how to improve upon the employee's telephone etiquette. Distinctive features with this particular Y Training Cord are the volume and mute controls. These controls allow the trainer to monitor telephone conversations silently. In addition to this, the Y Training Cord contains a single quick-disconnector which splits into two, enabling trainer or trainee to disconnect from the conversation. This is an extremely useful tool for training and monitoring employees or even having three way conversations.

For businesses looking to improve their employees' customer service and for trainers serious about enhancing call handling effectiveness, the Y Training Cord is a must have.
